TORNADO HITS

Rips Up War Boom Town of Pryor: 68 Known
Dead to Date

(By Associated Press)
PRYOR, Okla., April 28.—This war boom town today dug out of the ruins of an angry tornado that ripped down Main street, leaving $2,000,000 in property damage, 68 known dead and an estimate by the state highway patrol that the toll would reach 100 in this area.

Searchers still were digging through the rubble that once was Main street. Relief workers also hunted through farming areas devastated by the tornado.

The list of hospitalized injured ran between 150 and 300, the patrol said, and a score more were given only first aid treatment.

This town of 5,000, next door to the multi-million dollar Oklahoma ordinance works, was under martial law.

Hundreds of workers and machinery from the ordinance works, which escaped serious damage, were rushed to the scene. Giant bulldozers and cranes shoveled through the wreckage in search of victims.

The tornado, which struck yesterday, hit most of the six block business district on Main street.

Relief Agency Set Up

A central relief agency had been established and street patrols were organized to prevent looting.

The more seriously injured were hospitalized in nearby towns. Pryor's two hospitals were damaged and evacuated. Wounded overflowed hospitals at Vinita, Claremore, Tulsa and other towns.

Practically every brick building along Main street and on the principal business side streets was flattened or heavily damaged and about one third of the homes were damaged or destroyed.

Highway Patrolman Cecil Fishburn told of seeing the storm approaching as he drove into town from Claremore.

"I got into town just before the storm. Sheets of rain blinded persons along the street to the approaching clouds. I saw people huddled under awnings and in doorways to escape the rain and drove around trying to warn them."

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, April 28.—Squadrons of heavy British bombers, maintaining destructive attacks on German targets for the fifth day running, last night raided the Norwegian port of Trondheim where the Germans are building an Atlantic battle fleet base, the air ministry announced today.

Other squadrons simultaneously attacked Rhineland objectives, including Cologne, bombed the docks at Dunkerque, laid mines in waters off France and Belgium and machine-gunned German airdromes. Eighteen British planes were lost, a communiqué said.

A new bomber and fighter attacking force covering a square mile of sky and described as "the largest single unit ever to attack occupied France" swept out towards Calais today. Smaller flights had already returned from earlier raids which began at dawn.

Hit Buildings

Instead of concentrating on four German warships anchored in Trondheim harbor, British bombers aimed their explosives at land installations which, an air ministry source said, "we are trying to knock down as fast as they put up."

Informed sources in London said it is known that the Germans, using conscripted Norwegian labor, are attempting to complete quickly a large naval base there.

There is no reason to think our forces are going especially after units of the German fleet," one authority said. "It is vitally important to destroy the usefulness of Trondheim as a naval base."

Complaints Spur New Effort
In Congress To Ban
40-Hour Week

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—A chorus of complaints that President Roosevelt practically had exempted organized labor from his share-the-war program spurred new efforts in congress today to force suspension of the 40-hour week and a legislative clamp-down on other union privileges.

Legislators generally approved the objectives set forth in the President's seven point message yesterday designed to bring about an "equality of privilege" in sharing the war burden, but split into confused and quarrelsome blocs opposing and supporting some of the methods proposed.

FDR On Radio Tonight

The President planned to lay his program before the nation in a radio address tonight.

There was sharp criticism in congress of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt asked for no labor legislation and approved continuance of overtime wages for war industry workers while at the same time proposing legislative lowering of price ceilings on farm products.

Opposition developed also to this suggestion that drastic measures be enacted which would level off high personal incomes at $25,000 a year, after payment of taxes. Most members agreed with his recommendations for drastically increased excess profits taxation.

There was general approval of an expected order fixing retail and wholesale prices and there was no objection to a rationing of essential commodities. Likewise, the President's proposal for wide-spread voluntary purchases of war bonds was applauded.

Capital Believes Ceiling On All Consumer Goods
Will Be Set

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—On the brink of an historic plunge into over-all price controls, the capital today awaited announcement expected momentarily of a blanket price-ceiling on virtually all consumer goods.

A vertical regulation, preventing prices from rising above the highest prices charged by each dealer in the month of March, was expected to be disclosed at a press conference scheduled for late today by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

Advices accumulating for the last month indicated the ceiling would apply to retail, wholesale and manufacturers' levels.

President Roosevelt's anti-inflation message to congress yesterday gave a clear hint that rent controls in war-time boom areas would be linked with the proposed lid on prices.

The plan was expected to follow the Canadian pattern of permitting each store to set its own ceiling, using the highest price it charged in March as the maximum.

Prices Would Vary

Thus, one store could continue to charge more than another for the same article, an arrangement permitting "quality" shops to continue adding into their prices the cost of Junior High school pupils will be entertained at a party in the High school auditorium Wednesday afternoon. The affair is sponsored by the Junior High School association.

High school activities this week will include the annual Freshman-Sophomore party Friday evening in the "gym" and a radio quiz program as an assembly feature Friday morning.

The various classes are electing representatives for the quiz contest. Mrs. Marion Cox, Sophomore class advisor, and Miss Sarah Hanna, Freshman class advisor, are supervising student committees in arranging for the inter-class party.

Basketball team members are to be feted tonight by the Home Economics class of the High school at a dinner served in the class dining hall.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—"Here are the keys to the pantry, Jeeves; I feel like having some coffee and sugar with my cream this morning."

It's not quite as bad as that, but a start may have been taken with the announcement that a 25 per cent cut has been ordered in the consumption of coffee.

This means that wholesalers from now on will be permitted to release only enough coffee to afford the average American 2.1 cups a day, instead of the 2.8 cups to which he has been accustomed.

"Uncertainties about future supplies," were blamed by the War Production Board for the order.

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, April 28.—The office of Price Administration today set up 14 defense rental areas in Ohio and recommended rent ceilings for each.

As a part of the over-all freezing of prices, Price Administrator Leon Henderson proposed that rents be frozen as of March 1, 1942, in the following new areas:

Ashtabula county; Celina-St. Mary's (Auglaize and Mercer counties); Cincinnati (Butler, Clermont, Warren and Hamilton counties in Ohio and Boone, Campbell, and Kenton counties in Kentucky); Columbus (Franklin county); Findlay-Fostoria (Hancock and Seneca counties); Huntington, W. Va. (Lawrence county, Ohio, and Cabell and Wayne counties in West Virginia); Lima (Allen county); Marion county; Point Pleasant-Gallipolis (Gallia county, Ohio, and Mason county, W. Va.).

In two other new areas, the OPA recommended that rents be frozen as of April 1, 1942. They are the Dayton area (Champaign, Clark, Darke, Greene, Miami, Montgomery and Preble counties) and the Youngstown-Warren area (Mahoning and Trumbull counties). The July 1, 1941, level was recommended for Lorain county.

Rental areas previously set up but now extended include Akron (Medina and Summit counties); Canton (Stark and Tuscarawas counties, price frozen as of April 1, 1941); and Cleveland (Cuyahoga, Geauga and Lake counties, with July 1, 1941, rent level recommended.) In the Ravenna area, established March 2 and including all Portage county, the April 1, 1941, level was proposed.

A meeting of all Red Cross first aid instructors, who recently completed the instructors' course taught by T. C. McDaniels, Red Cross field worker, will be held at 8 p. m. Friday in the Memorial building.

Any person holding an instructor's certificate issued within the last three years may attend the meeting at which plans will be made for the organization of first aid classes.

VALUE OF WELFARE
GROUPS STRESSED

Committee To Nominate
Members of Council Is Appointed

Braving the rays of a mid-summer sun, approximately 125 Community Chest workers today launched the annual fund campaign for $22,600 with which to support the city's welfare agencies during the coming year.

The team captains will submit their first reports at a dinner meeting at 6:30 this evening in the Memorial building.

Picking up tomorrow where they left off, the teams will continue the campaign, with the hope and expectation that the $22,600 will be "in the bag" by nightfall.

The increased value of such welfare agencies as the 10 which share in the fund distribution here was emphasized in brief talks at last night's meeting when workers received final instructions.

With the nation at war now, the community should be more than ever conscious of the institutions which help to build it, speakers emphasized.

Walter Deming, Community Chest chairman, presided.

Tell Why Fund's Needed

A representative of each of the 10 participating agencies spoke briefly on "Why My Organization Is Valuable," including Miss Hazel Linn, for the Red Cross; Mrs. Eleanor Gibson, the Girl Scouts; Mrs. Hannah Maule, Home for Aged Women; J. M. Kelley, the Memorial building; D. B. McCune, the City hospital; Russell Gibbs, the Boy Scouts; Miss Irene Slutz, Friendly Council; Capt. Robert Barton, the Salvation Army; Albert Hanna, the Central Clinic hospital; and Rev. Fr. Joseph Mahan, the Catholic Charities. Miss Jane Ward, secretary for the Catholic Charities, was introduced by Fr. Mahan.

Andrew MacLeod, vice president of the Community Fund association, announced the appointment of the nominating committee for members of the council for the coming year.

They are: James H. Wilson, Walter Strain and Harold Brian. This committee will report Wednesday evening.

Brief comments concerning the work of the fund association were given by T. E. Miller, assistant campaign chairman, and R. S. McCulloch.

The invocation was by Rev. R. D. Walter, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

The Four Squires, composed of Arnold Nye, Ed Scheuring, Eddie Martin and Joseph Bandy, provided music.

He was named as head of the organization to succeed Atty Alfred L. Fitch, who has been president for the past year.

Ross and the other officers will be installed at the Junior Chamber's annual Bosses' night dinner May 27. Ross is employed in the engineering department of the Electric Furnace Co.

Other officers are: Vice president, William Bodendorf, Jr.; second vice president, Ronald Whipple; secretary, Richard Fisher; treasurer, Andy Klein.

Directors named for two-year terms are Richard Strain, Alroy Bloomberg and Alfred Fitch. Hold-over directors include Herbert H. Brown, Rudy Linder and Lowell Brown.

Plans were made for attending the Ohio State Junior C. of C. convention in Youngstown May 8-10. Ross and Fitch are the delegates.

An educational movie, "Men of the F.B.I.," was enjoyed at last night's meeting.

THE GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY

In the window of a downtown store a display card lists the organizations which participate in the Community Chest under this heading, "Good Neighbors of Yesterday Built the Salem of Today."

These few words tell the story of why Salem has had such a sound growth, why it has been able to develop and maintain organizations with a background of effective and praise-worthy work in charitable, welfare and social service fields. Starting back in the days nearly 30 years ago when the idea of building a community hospital first was conceived, this "good neighbor" policy has developed from year to year to provide institutions and agencies for character training among its boys and girls, for supervised recreation, for care of the sick and needy, the underprivileged and the wayward.

Salem has been proud of its accomplishments in these humanitarian fields. It has ample reason to feel proud, because every one of the organizations charged with any phase of this community work has been in capable and trust-worthy hands and all have given a good account of their stewardship. The result has been the building of a community life which makes living in Salem worth while.

The people of this city would not countenance the discontinuance of the work of a single one of these organizations which have been functioning so effectively. They realize the great need for such organizations, especially in time of war. Therefore they do not want to see any part of the work curtailed. The work of a few of the organizations supported by Community Chest funds may appeal to some people more than others, but all of them have established their place in Salem's sun.

As the "good neighbors of yesterday built the Salem of today," so must the good neighbors of today build the Salem of tomorrow. At the moment the most concrete form of expressing this faith in the future of the city is financial support of the Community Chest campaign under way this week. Whatever one gives is none too much to compensate for the community blessings provided by the good neighbors of yesterday.

PEACE, WHEN THERE IS NO PEACE

Again, there are rumors of peace. Germany and Japan, it is said, will wage "political" war on the United States with a "peace offensive."

The people are warned in advance by their leaders not to be fooled; that would be playing the Axis game. But the people are awake.

They know now there can be no peace till the issue that has been raised has been settled. The war cannot be called off till it is finished.

The war cannot be finished till one side or the other has clearly earned the right to impose its will on the loser. There can be no peace till it has been decided for at least another generation that any nation which uses war as an instrument of national policy is acting against the recognized code of ethics.

It is forgotten now, or remembered bitterly, that after the conclusion of the other war there was an international agreement called the Kellogg-Briand pact that outlawed war. All the nations subscribed to it. It was the international law.

The law has not been broken, but the ethical basis on which it stood has not changed. Men still believe that war as an instrument of national policy is not right. They have gained that much in their fight for the kind of world they want.

When this war is over and these same men have reestablished the right to call warring nations criminals under a recognized code of international law, then there will be another test of their ability to enforce what they believe. They failed after 1918 in enforcement; there was nothing wrong with their purpose.

There can be no peace on the terms of the nations whose leaders coldly plotted how to conquer the world by treacherous resort to war.

MORALE IS MENTAL

The congressional critic who thinks the best place for professional athletes to build morale when they join the fighting forces is with the fighting forces, instead of in training camps, is talking about a matter that may have to be aired some day. The same observation could be applied to moving picture actors and all others whose fame qualifies them as morale builders.

The general idea seems to be that a famous person makes the lot of the unknown trainee a little easier to bear by radiating some of the famous personality. "Look at Elmer Dookus," the ordinary selectee is supposed to say. "He was making a fortune playing third base, but now he's building my morale. Good old Elmer." What the selectee actually says is open to conjecture.

To whatever extent the army and navy may be vulnerable to the charge of letting fame qualify certain men for relatively soft jobs as morale builders, their congressional critic who thinks a lot more morale would be built if the famous were treated like the unknown deserves a hearing. Perhaps the army and navy might ask a cross-section of trainees to find out.

SOMETHING ROTTEN IN GERMANY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

There certainly is something rotten in Germany when Hitler has to order his puppet reichstag to grant him power of life and death over the people.

Obviously it means he is encountering trouble which he figures can be handled only by strong-arm methods.

This significant development coincides with the swelling of the revolt among the peoples of the occupied countries, and the growing reluctance of the other European members of the Hitlerian pact to continue to sacrifice their own people in order to provide blood-transfusions for Nazidom. We see this disposition in Rumania and in Hungary and, what is of greater importance, in Italy, which used to be stroke-oar in the fuhrer's galley until the crack of his whip no longer brought the old response.

One of the things for us to watch, and for Herr Hitler to keep a sharp eye on, is the durability of that Ita'o-Nazi alliance. As a matter of fact, it long has been obvious that Italian loyalty to the fuhrer isn't the cement which holds the original Axis brotherhood together.

It isn't strange, therefore, to get a report from neutral Turkey that secret negotiations for peace are being undertaken in Rome with the Allies. Now there may or may not be a sound basis for this report but from my own knowledge I am confident that whether or not the Italians actually are feeling about for peace, they would jump at it if they were free to do so.

Adapting School Lunch To Needs

Nutritional Deficiencies Must Be Considered

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE PROPORTIONATE number of pupils in our public schools who are provided with lunch under the supervision of the school authorities on the school grounds varies in different cities. I should judge that the larger the city, the larger the proportion of pupils who require this service. Of course, in any city the proportion varies, depending upon the location of the school, whether or not it is in a residential neighborhood of high or low economic level.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The general movement for school lunches has grown and certainly holds great possibilities, both immediate and future. A committee of the American Medical association has recently released an official statement concerning this increasingly significant unit in the American dietary.

In adapting the school lunch to the needs of the child, one must recognize and correct the principal nutritional deficiencies most commonly found in American diets. These are calcium, vitamin B1 and, in certain areas, iron, iodine and several minor vitamins. Where money is lacking for the purchase of food in the home, or the adequate provision of lunch for the child, a deficiency in all these essentials may exist.

The food sources from which these deficiencies can be made up are: milk for calcium and vitamins; eggs for phosphorus and iron; cheese for calcium and phosphorus; vegetables, fruits and meats for many minerals, including iron; whole grains and peas and beans for vitamin B1.

The proper feeding of a vast multitude, whether in an army or in a nation, constitutes an appalling problem. Not only must a suitable diet be furnished, but the difficulties of transportation and preservation must be solved.

Future Values

The school lunch, as well as the army food, has tremendous potentialities for good, not only because it provides a balanced diet, but also in the education of the individual: these children and soldiers should have learned, for the benefit of their health and their future families' health, what a completely balanced, nutritious diet consists of.

Besides this, there is a possibility for emphasizing the importance of taking time to eat. A few years ago the Harvard University Memorial Hall was forced to close its kitchens because the students, too impatient to sit, preferred to take their hamburgers and chocolate malts on one foot with the other on the rail.

The possibilities for good of school lunches are so important that the management of all the cafeterias in all the public schools should be placed in the hands of a single director.

Certainly the sale of undesirable foods, such as candy and tonics, in the cafeteria or on the school premises should be stopped. In order to sidestep this particular problem, the school children should not be allowed to leave the school premises during the lunch hour and no one should be allowed to loiter candy or other foods to them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

S.: "Will daily contact with dry graphite be likely to cause lung injury?"

Answer: Yes, it may cause a condition known as silicosis.

M. L. H.: I have heard that rhubarb was hard on the kidneys. Is this true?

Answer: On the contrary, rhubarb has no special effect on the kidneys whatever; like most vegetables, it tends to make the urine alkaline and to this extent is good rather than bad.

L. B. W.: Is phenobarbital habit-forming and is it injurious for one to take for a length of time?

Answer: The opinion of the medical profession is not unanimous on this. Any drug which is as powerful an hypnotic as phenobarbital is bound to be habit-forming in people with an unstable nervous system. In the sense that abstinence from its use produces serious withdrawal symptoms, it is not habit-forming. I have known people to take it for a long time without forming a habit or without its doing them any harm.

On the other hand, I have known many cases of habit formation. It may cause skin rashes and partial, temporary dimness of vision.

M. W.: 1. Will an X-ray detect stomach ulcers? 2. Is it possible to cure such a condition? 3. Is there any symptom that will definitely tell a stomach ulcer condition?

Answer: 1. The X-ray, if properly done, will detect a stomach ulcer in about 89 per cent of cases.

2. Most cases can be cured.

3. The symptoms which are pathognomonic of ulcer are discomfort caused by meals and relief by alkalis, such as sodium bicarbonate.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

The "Vandam" passengers had forgotten their present peril. All were intent now upon the life-and-death race between the destroyer and submarine.

Abandoning their tender, the men from the U-boat scrambled aboard the low-lying tube of steel, and sought safety beneath its sea-drenched deck.

In a gleam of the destroyer's searchlight, Brinda fancied she could recognize her recent antagonist, the spy who was both a waiter and a baron, as he vanished within the conning-tower. Her nails bit into her palms at the stolen list of British secret agents that she had been so sure she would return to Sir John.

"Oh, hurry, hurry!" she prayed to the onrushing destroyer.

For a breathless moment, it seemed the U-boat was immediately doomed; that one of the shells striking from the six-inch guns of the destroyer was bound to make direct hit. But the sub commander had plans of his own. With the U-boat suddenly got under way, not submerging immediately, but moving ahead on a course that brought it around the bows of the "Vandam."

This maneuver placed the Dutch ship, with its cargo of helpless passengers, between the destroyer and its quarry. As a result, the British boat had to silence its guns momentarily, while it also changed its course in a wide, sweeping circle around the motionless liner.

The U-boat took advantage of the interval to begin its dive.

Nerve-shattering moments passed as the destroyer completed its maneuver. Then its guns lashed out in white flame again, and the water about the vanishing U-boat leaped into convulsions.

Now, the destroyer straightened out and, splitting the sea in a mighty double-wave, bore down at high speed on the submarine, intent on ramming.

At the same moment, the stern of the U-boat submerged. Brinda could imagine it plunging on down through the ocean depths, its crew waiting for the next explosion that would tell them they were doomed. She shuddered as she realized that, had she been allowed aboard, she would have been doomed with them.

The destroyer had ceased firing now. As it passed over the point where the U-boat had vanished, it seemed to hesitate briefly. Then, it sped on while, in its wake, the sea suddenly leaped into huge geysers—solid blocks of water as tall as high buildings. The reverberations of the exploding depth-bombs shook the "Vandam" from bow to stern.

Wheeling, like a steel terrier, the destroyer returned to the charge, crossing its own path. Again, the concussion of depth bombs; again the exploding pillars of water, sending spray over the decks of the "Vandam" and its white-faced passengers watching the deadly drama of battle.

"Ah!" said a man next to Brinda. "That did it!" He spoke as though to himself.

"Did what?" she asked. "What do you mean?"

"Look," said the man, his voice trembling a little. "Don't you see? Oil from the U-boat. They got it!"

In the glare of the destroyer's searchlight, Brinda could see it now. A blackness that bubbled and spread. In its midst, the sea was calmer. Wider and wider, it spread, pouring out of the shattered fuel-tanks of the submarine like dark blood from a mortally wounded monster.

Somewhere beneath it, Brinda knew, the U-boat was sinking toward the ocean floor, with all its complement of officers and men including the Gestapo agent whose presence had kept her from being aboard it herself. With the young Commander, who, a little while ago had looked so bored and arrogant as he contemptuously calmed the fears of the "Vandam" captain. With Konrad, the baron who had counted so confidently on visiting England one day as a conqueror. And, Brinda realized with a gasp of unutterable relief, with the stolen list of agents—the prize for which the lost ship had ventured into this dangerous sea!

Sir John was saved. The lives of the British agents on that list were now secure. Dizzy from emotion, Brinda clutched at the rail. She thought of the men in the shattered submarine, drowned like rats in a trap, and for a moment almost wept with pity. Then she thought of Konrad—the cold sensuality of his eyes—the quick brutality of his hand—and the weakness passed. This was war, and a war that such men as the baron had sought. It was a war from which they had excluded pity, because pity itself was weakness, and only the sword was strong. And, in any case, no pity, no tears, could reach them now. They were beyond such human frailty, as they had wished to be when alive.

The destroyer lay still now, its searchlights probing the spreading film of oil.

Another searchlight stabbed at the "Vandam" outlining the passengers, revealing startled faces, still awed by having come so close to death.

A boat put out from the destroyer, approached the "Vandam."

"Too bad," said a carefully suppressed voice in Brinda's ear. "There must have been some slip-up."

Brinda recognized the "Vandam" officer to whom she had considered appealing for aid while she was Konrad's captive—the officer who, she now knew, had helped in seeing the "Vandam" was at the right spot for its rendezvous with the U-boat.

She looked at him more closely now, noting the flushed face and loose mouth of an habitual drinker. He misunderstood her glance.

"Don't worry about that Nazi!" he said. "There are still plenty of good men alive. I'll come to your stateroom after the excitement's over and we'll have some schnapps, eh?" He winked amiably.

She was at a loss for a reply. But repugnance must have shown in her face, for the man went on, "Come, now. No use of pretending with me, Fraulein! After all, I'm a neutral. You're an English girl, and if you can be kind to a Nazi spy, you you shouldn't balk at an honest fellow like me. Or"—he glowered—"would you rather have me tell these English sailors that are coming aboard?"

"But you misunderstand," said Brinda. "Don't you see, I—And then she realized it was no use; to tell this venal, sodden fellow anything. In fury, she turned on him. "Go away! Don't speak to me. I despise you!"

He glared at her with dull, pig-like malice. "We'll see about that," he muttered. Then he turned on his heel.

The men from the destroyer were coming aboard now. Crowding forward with the other passengers, Brinda saw one of them—a sandy-haired young lieutenant—confering briskly with the "Vandam's" captain.

The plotting second officer of the liner joined the group. Brinda became aware he was pointing at her. He raised his voice and addressing the British lieutenant, said: "There she is! She's a spy. She was going aboard the submarine with that Nazi. Besides, she's his sweetheart. I saw them together—kissing—in his cabin."

Brinda understood now. Lest she denounce him first, the bribed officer was denouncing her.

"Step this way, please, Miss," said the lieutenant from the destroyer sternly.

As if in a dream, Brinda obeyed. She felt herself ringed by hostile faces. What could she say—how clear herself of the accusation so swiftly and unjustly hurled?

But the situation was unexpectedly resolved. Out of the knot of men from the destroyer rose a familiar head, a familiar pair of broad, competent shoulders. A strong hand grasped the voluble "Vandam" officer and swung him him roughly against a stanchion.

"No more out of you!" snapped the voice of Dick Malden. Then, to a sailor, "Put this fellow under arrest!" Brinda looked deep into steady, hazel eyes; felt warm, reassuring hands in her own. "I got your message just in time, darling. Thank God!"

Garden Groups Planning Annual Guest Day

Announcement of the annual guest day of the Salem Garden club and the Garden Study club May 25 was made at a meeting of the former group yesterday afternoon at the library assembly room.

The clubs will have a luncheon at the Christian church, followed by a book review given by Mrs. Guy E. Byers. Reservations should be made by April 22 with Mrs. Burt Leeper, Mrs. Charles Butz or Mrs. Fred Lewis.

A report of the sessions last week of the Ohio Garden club in Cleveland was presented by Mrs. H. E. Stiver, who outlined the Ohio club's work for victory gardens. Although the Salem club will not sponsor any victory garden movement, information may be obtained by interested persons from Mrs. R. T. Holzbach.

Mrs. R. W. Broome gave an interesting paper on "Native Birds," describing the nesting and migratory habits and foods of the many birds active in this region. She pointed out that one species of the pike is nearly extinct due to the wholesale slaughter of the bird in the 1830's when they were used for food.

"Planting and care of a Small Garden" was the subject of a talk by Miss Nora Greenawald who said that simplicity and order should be the keynote in small gardens, that they should be well cultivated, carefully planted and given good care.

The horticultural report was given by Mrs. W. H. Matthews. The speaker informed members that chemicals must be contained in the soil vegetables are grown in, to insure the vitamin content of the vegetables. The Wooster experiment station has made available without charge a quantity of material on the subject. In discussing the planting and care of rock gardens Mrs. Matthews advised the use of limestone and sandstone rocks because they will hold and absorb moisture for the plants around them and will not absorb heat from the sun enough to burn the flowers.

higher operating expenses, delivery service and other "extras."

New legislation would not be necessary for a blanket price order or an extension of rent controls. Henderson has authority under the emergency price control act to abandon the selective or "piece-meal" technique so far used and to take blanket price action.

Rent controls can be set up in any community merely by designating it as a defense rental area.

Henderson gave notice last night OPA would take stern steps to enforce rent reductions in 20 areas as prescribed by OPA March 12. The communities are given 60 days to reduce rents by local action, and after that time the government may move in if necessary to compel compliance.

The expected price order, because of its unprecedented incursion into the retail field, may lead in a few weeks to a general system of licensing all business if there are indications of widespread violations.

TO WIN THE WAR

Maybe your chances of buying a new car are better than you think

Here's clarifying information about the rules on the purchase of new automobiles—and how you can get one if you are eligible.

MORE people are entitled to buy new automobiles under Government rationing regulations than may have been generally realized.

Indeed, if you are eligible to buy a new car, and continue to drive an old and inefficient model, you may actually burn up more gasoline, consume more oil and wear out tires faster than is desirable in the interest of conservation of critical materials and supplies.

The principal groups eligible for the purchase of new cars are as follows:

1. Physicians, surgeons, visiting nurses, veterinarians and regularly practicing ministers of a religious faith, when their cars are used for professional purposes.
2. Persons engaged in fire-fighting services, police services, public health services, mail services or highway construction and maintenance of equipment when cars are used in direct line of duty.
3. Persons furnishing transportation to the public, when the purchase is required in the interest of public safety and convenience.
4. Persons engaged in the prosecution of the war, directly or indirectly, including executives, engineers, technicians and workers. Such cars must be used in transportation to or from or within factories, power plants, transportation or communication facilities, farms, lumber camps, mines, military or naval establishments, when the work done in such place of employment is essential, directly or indirectly, to the prosecution of the war.
5. Persons transporting produce and supplies to and from a farm when applicant does not own or possess a truck or other practicable means of transportation.
6. Traveling salesmen, when the car is required in selling foods and medical supplies or machinery and equipment to farms, factories, mines, oil wells, lumber camps or similar productive establishments.
7. Persons delivering newspapers, when the car is required for wholesale delivery.

The first step in getting a car is to fill out the proper application form, which we will be glad to obtain for you.

It is then necessary only to demonstrate to the local rationing board that your need for a car is bona fide to get a "certificate of purchase" entitling you to immediate delivery on the model of your own selection.

If you have any questions about your eligibility after reading the above list, we will be glad to answer them for you to the best of our ability.

If you're eligible...let us help you

ALSAB REMAINS AS FAVORITE IN DERBY RUNNING SATURDAY

Requested. With Regards Given Good Chance To Cop Classic

By SID FEDER
(The Associated Press)
LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Derbytown has begun to powder its nose and put on fresh face paint for its big horse holiday week, as early indications were for a field of 15 or 16 three-year olds to come out a-run-nin' in Saturday's 68th Kentucky Derby.

And this biggest collection of Derby gallopers since War Admiral led the Congo line for 19 others five years back, represented what was probably the outstanding display of bargain basement offerings ever to sit in on Col. Matt Winn's shindig. All but a scant few were picked up here and there out of yearling sales, in cash transactions or claiming races, for as little as $700 or $800.

This fact, added to the size of the field and the way most of the classic candidates in the lot have been hot as firecrackers one day and cold as last night's mashed potatoes the next, left most of the hardboiled wondering just who was "Mr. Big" in the outfit.

Requested's victory in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday—in which Apache's tired third place finish brought clouds to Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons—left him a slight betting choice. But along with that triumph for Texas Ben Whitaker's little fellow, you couldn't overlook Alsab's improved stepping in the Chesapeake at Havre the week before and Devil Diver's dashing 2:09 3-5 workout over the full mile and a quarter route Sunday to show he's all over that cut.

The result was that the sixty-four-dollar question hereabouts was "how does it all add up?" There was quite a bit of local approval for the one-two punch in the barn of Emerson Woodward, the Texas cattleman. Almost as soon as you hit Walnut and Fourth streets someone stepped up and told you not to lean too far away from this pair—the import route Hollywood and Valinda Orphan.

Requested's Wood win, which added $22,900 to his bankroll, boosted him over the $100,000 earnings mark—$102,800 to be exact—and put his $1,300 yearling buy just about on a par with Alsab's bargain honors. Al Sabath's little stepper cost $700 and has earned $115,660 up to this minute.

Others Rate Highly
But while they represented the realm of the get-rich-quick collection, there were any number of others who cost a song and have been singing a sweet tune for their owners ever since. To mention only a few there's With Regards, who was caught by Pinkie Grimes for $800 and recently won the Arkansas Derby, and William Du Pont's Baby Dimples, bought for $1,100 and a threat if it comes up mid Saturday, and T. D. Buhl's Sweep Swinger and Mrs. Ed Mulrenan's First Fiddle, both claimed for $2,500.

Another Saratoga sales buy was added to the field when Edward S. Moore, the Wyoming rancher indicated today he would start Sir War, the well-bred son of Sir Galahad III, who cost him $4,600, who has won more than $8,000 so far, and whose recent job of work was a snappy mile-and-a-sixteenth win at Keeneland.

TRIBE INVADERS A'S LAIR; BAGBY HURLS

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—The annual April speculation on the prospects if the Cleveland Indians turn more than ever on the merits of the pitching staff, which are about to be tested in the Tribe's first eastern tour, starting today.

That the Indian hurlers have done pretty well in the Western circuit is attested by the mention of Jim Bagby as today's mound choice for the opening of a three-game series with the Athletics.

Bagby, in helping to boost Cleveland into a first-place tie, leads American league hurlers with a record of three wins and none lost. Against the Athletics Manager Lou Boudreau plans also to use Al Milnar and Vernon Kennedy.

Milnar has started three games, won one and lost none. Kennedy has had only one start, in which he gave up only five hits as the Indians beat the Browns 3 to 2.

Mel Harder is tagged for the opening game against Washington next Friday. The veteran lost 3 to 1 to 0 decision to Chicago. He had to call on Harry Eisenstat for help, Harry giving up two more. Then Harder made up for his loss by pitching four-hit, shutout ball as the Tribe won from St. Louis, 2 to 0.

The best news about Harder, however, that his once ailing arm felt stronger in the late innings than at the start, and gave no pain on the day following his pitching duties.

CUBS TOP REDLEGS IN 11 FRAMES, 4-3

CINCINNATI, April 28.—Enjoying a league lead as big as they took a half-season to get last year, the Brooklyn Dodgers open a three-game series with the Cincinnati Reds here today.

The Dodgers' 11-victory total is made up of five of seven over the Phils, four straight against the Braves and two of three from the Giants so they're still to buck the first-division clubs of 1941.

Whitlow Wyatt, and Elmer Riddle, victim of two Redleg losses, are the probable pitching opponents. Dodgers were sprinkled in the stands yesterday as the Reds lost an 11-inning thriller to the Chicago Cubs 4-3. It was the third extra-inning game in five that the two clubs have played and gave the Cubs a majority of three victories.

The Cubs won 5-4 in 11 frames here Saturday and lost 2-1 in 14 innings at Wrigley field last week.

Stan Hack's fourth hit, Eddie Joost's miff of a throw to catch Hack stealing, and Len Merullo's single brought the Cubs' deciding run.

For three innings the game looked like a hurling duel between Johnny Vander Meer and Rookie Hiram Bithorn, but in the fourth Lou Novikoff singled and Lou Stringer smashed a homer. Then in the fifth Novikoff followed two singles and a walk with a base hit to drive in another run.

Bithorn's turn came in the sixth when Ival Goodman doubled, Bert Haas walked, and Gerald Walker singled in a run. Frank McCormick's fly chased in a second run, and when Eddie Joost doubled long Paul Erickson was called into pitch. Erickson purposely walked Ray Lamanno, fanned Vander Meer, and forced a foul pop from McCormick to leave three Redlegs runners stranded.

Frank McCormick opened the seventh with a 400-foot homer to tie the score. It was McCormick's third homer of the season and the only safety Erickson permitted.

MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS GET SCENERY CHANGE

The major leagues open their first interseasonal strife of the season today.

It is impossible to evaluate the Brooklyn Dodgers on their record of winning nine out of 11 games from the Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phils and no one will be sure of the surprising strength shown by the Cleveland Indians until they are tested against the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox.

At the outset there are three series that stand out—the Detroit Tigers invasion of Boston in the American league and the Brooklyn at Cincinnati and New York at St. Louis struggles in the National League.

The Tigers have come up with unexpectedly fine pitching and the New York Giants with extra-base hitting to hang around third place in the two leagues. Some of the credit for their high estate, however, must go to the collapse of the Chicago White Sox, who currently are couched in the American league cellar, and the Cincinnati Reds, who are in seventh place in the senior circuit. Both these clubs were, and still are, expected to wind up near the top.

The Reds ran into another setback yesterday, 4-3 in 11 innings, by the Chicago Cubs. For the Cubs victory meant a tie with the Giants for third place.

All of the other clubs had an open date.

COUNTY ANGLERS TO FIND FISHING GOOD

LISBON, April 28.—Columbiana anglers will find plenty of good fishing in the streams and lakes of the county as a result of efforts of the state conservation department and the county sportsmen, in placing approximately 7,000 fish of various species in county waters in the past week, Richard Andrus, president of the county group, announced.

The species, including crappies, small mouth bass, blue gills and perch, were placed in the streams and lakes of the county under the supervision of George Messerly of Ravenna, district fish manager.

Attention of fishermen is also called to the fact that bass season closes on Thursday, April 30, and will remain closed until June 16.

As Alsab pranced back to the barn under the care of Jockey Basil James, who will ride him in the Derby, the cut could be seen just over his right ankle, but Trainer Sarge Swenne said, "It's nothing that'll bother him."

Open Rent Probe

CLEVELAND, April 28.—An investigation to determine if five Ohio areas had complied with federal recommendations to reduce and stabilize rents was launched today by the Office of Price Administration. The localities included Canton.

Paced by Jim Armstrong's 615 series racked up on games of 168, 235, and 212, the Altohouse keggers topped Hawks twice on the Grate alleys last night. Their three game margin of safety over the second place Arcos was chopped when the Arcos blasted out a three game victory over the Masons.

The Golden Eagle came through with a two game win over Bliss and cut the gap between the Eagles and Capels who occupy fourth place. It was Gondas who tripped the Capel outfit. In other matches, the Lape Hotel won two from the Mullins Cutters while Coys copped a pair from the Quaker Orphans.

WATERY COMPLAINT

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—The water department has on hand a complaint that fairly drips with indignation.

"When it rains the overflow caused by a water main floods my front yard, and is killing my trees," read the report.

It was signed by W. B. Sprinkle of Colbath avenue.

REAL ESTATE

HERE IS A REAL INVESTMENT OR A NICE HOME!

This house is located on North Lincoln Ave. and is one of the best built houses in Salem. Has a good high basement under the entire house, divided into three parts for coal and laundry. Also has toilet in basement. First floor is planned nicely with reception hall and large living room, dining room and kitchen. Second floor has four bedrooms and bath. The third floor is finished off in three rooms. The second floor now rents furnished at $40.00 per month.

This house is so arranged that the owner can live on the first floor and rent both the second and third floors furnished. The income from the two upstairs apartments could be at least $65.00 per month, and you would still have a place to live.

The only reason the owner wants to sell is the fact that he has ill health and wants to leave the city. This property also has a small barn large enough for four cars, and we are pricing it at only $5,000.

Considering the location and the house, this is one of the best investment properties I have had for sale for a long time. If interested, get in touch with me at once.

Wounded on Road to Recovery

Dean G. Darrow, fire controlman, and seaman James B. Barker, (right) both critically wounded at Pearl Harbor, are now on the road to recovery in a west coast hospital. They are shown perusing an X-ray chart showing Jap machine gun bullets only recently extracted from Darrow's heart muscles. A shrapnel fragment was removed from Barker's heart.

TORNADO SWEEPS OKLAHOMA AREA

Rips Up War Boom Town of Pryor; 68 Known Dead to Date

"Many of them apparently were trapped under falling debris as the tornado struck."

In one trailer camp west of town, eight persons were trapped and killed. The collapse of a grocery store in a cafe died in the smashed structure. Three bodies were recovered from a rubble heap that had been a garage.

"Everything Went Black"

Faye Mitchell, employee of the county agent's office, said "everything went black as the storm struck."

"It made my ears hurt" she said. "There was a high whistling sound. It was like swimming deep under water."

All telephone communications were cut. The electric power was off. Ambulances from nearby towns carried out wounded.

F. C. (Dick) Dickinson, employee of the Grand river dam at Langley, Okla., had just driven into town as the purplish-black storm cloud descended.

He said he counted 11 bodies in five blocks.

The ordinance plant workers cleared the streets of rubble, then attacked the tottering walls of business houses to lay the danger of further crumbling and injury to rescue workers.

Portable power units from the ordinance works were set up at strategic centers in the downtown area. Emergency water supplies and food were brought in.

The storm was freakish in its savagery. About 15 to 20 chickens covered down the street, picked clean by the wind.

One side of the First National bank was blown out. Loose money from the tills—the amount undetermined—littered the street. Nobody stopped to pick it up. They were too busy.

F. D. R. ACCUSED OF FAVORING LABOR

Complaints Spur New Effort in Congress to Ban 40-Hour Week

But legislators who have been championing new labor laws expressed dissatisfaction at Mr. Roosevelt's plan to stabilize wages by executive action through the machinery of the war labor board as well as his evident opposition to suspension of the 40-hour week and to the enactment of anti-strike legislation. Mr. Roosevelt predicted his stand on the assertion that organized labor had "voluntarily given up its right to strike during the war."

Before Senate Today

The labor question was brought before the senate today on a special order permitting Senator Connally (D-Tex.) to move to take up his bill authorizing the government to seize strike-bound war plants, freezing working conditions in such plants but permitting the adjustment of wages by a special board.

One group of senators had four amendments ready to insert in the bill. These would establish a 48-hour work week at regular pay in war industries, freeze open and closed shops, limit union initiation fees and outlaw jurisdictional strikes and boycotts in war plants.

In the house, Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) said the naval affairs committee would vote tomorrow on his bill to establish a 48-hour week, freeze union status and limit war profits.

Criticism of the President's stand on the labor question came from Democrats and Republicans alike.

Most farm state legislators complained that the President was asking the farmer to accept lower price ceilings while contending that industrial wages should be maintained at present levels.

eastern flanking maneuver which was the most menacing.

The Japanese forces, freed by the fall of Malaya and Singapore and supported by thousands of rebellious Burmese, apparently were racing against time to clean up Burma before the imminent rainy season.

(Such development obviously would cause the Allies' "great difficulties," British quarters in London acknowledged.)

The Chinese said the Japanese also would be in a position then to launch a land attack against India, and the Chinese army organ, Sao Tang Pao, declared:

"The battle of Burma may ultimately prove to be the determining factor of World War II, for once Japan gains control of Burma her dream of a junction with Germany in the Near East comes nearer to realization."

Pre-election pledges had prevented the Mackenzie King government from sending any but volunteers to Britain and the Orient.

Lord Lovat holds the rank of major. The commando raid lasted two hours. They withdrew after their work was done without the loss of a single Britisher.

NORWAY PORT IS HAMMERED BY RAF

Other Squadrons Attack Rhineland Targets At Same Time

Clear weather aided the raiders in the fifth day of their sustained offensive over Germany proper. Large fires were said to have been started at Cologne and at other points in the Rhineland.

A strong bombing force attacked the German naval base at Trondheim, Norway, where the 35,000-ton battleship Tirpitz and 10,000-ton cruiser Prince Eugen took refuge after fleeing from Brest but "the effect of this raid may not be known for some time," the communiqué said. Previous reports said that the Prince Eugen had already been damaged in earlier raids.

The docks at Dunkerque were bombed and at the same time mines were laid in waters off the coasts of German-occupied France and Belgium.

Fighter planes raided an unidentified airfield in German occupied territory and a supply ship was damaged off the coast of Denmark, the air ministry said.

Reconnaissance flights over much of the German coast, however, have established that the main assembly sheds of the big Heinkel aircraft factory there had been damaged as well as many of the auxiliary buildings.

Fires at Rostock were still burning at noon Monday, the air ministry said, after the city had been bombed four successive nights.

Cologne was the British night raiders' target after an interval of three weeks since 300 bombers attacked that Rhine river city and British sources said the raiders again were in considerable force and had caused widespread new damage.
